Texas Preserves Relie

The oldest complete structure still remaining in Texas is the stone fort at San Pedro Springs, San Antonio. Plans to preserve it are well advanced. Its construction is placed at various dates between 1000 and 1716. The stone fort formed the southwest corner of a cedar stockade, burned by Indians. Defense of the old fort from attacks of decay has been spurred on by recent loss of the old stone market house and the Veramendi palace. Both these old buildings gave way to the march of industry. The fort is on ground made a park by the city, so is free from danger of caxing,

VANDALS NOT SOLE WRECKERS OF ROME

An mountiducted by-product of the wholesale excavations undertaken is Rome by order of Mussolin has been io clear the barbarian invaders of much of the stigons formerly attached to their name. As a result of the discoveries in the vicinity of Trajan's forum, Corado Ricco, director of exsion that earthquakes, internal strife, wrought far more destruction in aucient Rome than did the barbarians.

One of the latest discoveries is a long colonnade of heavy pillars all toppied, leaning against each other like trees bent by a strong wind. Their destruction was not due to human vandair, but was traced to an earthquake papal rule of Pope Leo III. As the excavations have revealed increasing evidence that the barbarians were maligned, the director's work has in tensified their study of the old historical records and they have been able to demonstrate that many buildings and temples supposedly destroyed in the "sack" of the city, were standing long after the last barbarian departed. barlant may be due to the prejudiced reporting by the early Christians, who. as was amply demonstrated in the re-ports of persecutions under the empire, never let accuracy stand in the way of giving their enemies a bad name. Even without support from the most upprejudiced records to be found the archeologists in charge of the present work have become convinced by the massive size of the structure uncovered that the destruction of buildings by the invading armies was out of the question.—Washington Star.

Our Peoples Parties Speak. The national conventions of our major political parties have now become a memory and a matter of record. The radio made it possible for all America to "sit in", at the Chicago nomination and ratification conclaves. So millions of Americans citizens have vivid memories of "the big show" put on by both parties Visitors from abroad undoubtedly would have marvelled at the enthus issm and hilarity displayed by the party delegates and visitors in the gallery. For the moment some thou-sands of Americans concentrated on the task of supporting their "favor-ite sons" for the highest offices in the gift of our people. That meant keen rivalry and combat, especially in the Democratic conclave. Remem-bering the world-wide business problems of this hour, serious minded Americans "listening in" and visitors from abroad, were most concerned about the party principles expressed in the two party platforms. Judging by the convention demonstrations, important factors were taken as a matter of course, excitement contered about the party nominees and the party's stand on repeal of the national prohibition amendment. Apparently both parties favor resubmission. The Republicans meeting first, took longer in saying it. The Democrats were quick of the It. The Democrats were quick of the opportunity for saying the same thing more concise and directly. By November both parties will probably be saying the same thing in the same way. The solid Democratic south, with its complex negro problem, has always been strong for prohibition, while Tammany Hall and New York Dymocrats have been agressively against prohibition all

The National Convention Records. Thus every American has this vital information now in hand. He vital information now in anid, me has until September to make up his mind on who shall be his party nominees, and until November for his final decision at the polls. The people of Chicago and visitors to national party conventions marvelled at the apparent prosperity of the delegates present. They came in luxurious trains and motor cars such as are almost unknown in the Old World. They came well dressed stopped at the best taverns, and apparently had money to spend, and spent it. So say the hotel men and Chamber of Commerce of Chicago. The thousands of visitors in the covention hall gallery were equally well dressed and happy to join in the hilarities of the occasion. There was much music and some fireworks Everybody present had a good time Few of the active delegates could tell on the morrow of the conventions, just what their party platforms had to say about present business conditions, and how to speed up the American business dollar. Now that both parties have spoken, it is clear

Because in Shell Gasoline you ger a perfactly balanced fuel - made possible only by a remarkable process plus many years of consistent development in refining and blending. Shell cuts down Engine-Waste in all its forms!

We all know this Engine-Waste gang: Knocks, slow pick-up, dilution of oil, slow

Gasoline is being wasted. Engine-Waste is putting your mileage on the toboggan . shooting your driving costs upward. Why not switch now to Shell, and be rid

ST. VALENTINE

ST. VALENTINE, in whose name expressions of sentiment have been exchanged since early Roman times, appeared frequently in early church blatory. Monks or priests have been sainted under that same in France Italy, Spain and South Africa, and it was given special algolicance in the Third century by a Roman priest noted for his good deeds and also by a

But a Tavorite legend identifies the saint who is responsible for our annual indulgence in lace paper, cupids and sweet dittles with a Roman youth of the early Christian era, who chose to be crucified rather than deny his ad-herence to the new faith. Men and Women Readers, as Novelist Sees Them

The existence of the average woman in the United States is still without variety or romantic lovers, splendid husbands. The prospect for them in most-cases-is-not bright.

There is a great guif, in such a wom-an, between her life and her thoughts, her aspirations; and novels about glor lous feminine conquests, nobilities and power compose a large part of her in ner, necessitous being. To a great ex-tent she dwells in and upon them. I would never expect to sell a novel about a lonely and defeated woman to women. Not unless it were wholly sentimental.

A sentimental novel, in such a case would be one where the woes, the importance, of the woman were grossly exaggerated. A cold record of fact could have no success with them; the question, the presence of truth and beauty have no substance. An over whelming majority of women read for support, for the illusion of an ameli-oration of their fates.

Men, when they read at all are difgeneral classification is possible. Sometimes, engaged with my toda, I think men read mostly to discover the numbers of mistakes in the books they examine.—Joseph Hergesheimer in the American Biercury.
